

China solar power to battery in Brunei

Overview

In August 2025, the Chinese enterprise Lisiner successfully connected the first phase of a solar-plus-storage power station to Brunei's grid. 5 MW photovoltaic array with 23.8 MWh of energy storage, providing reliable power to the industrial zone on Pulau. From massive solar arrays to high-tech storage systems, the collaboration is driving a transition toward a cleaner industrial landscape in Southeast Asia, providing a blueprint for sustainable industrialization. On February 12, a landmark achievement was reached with the commissioning of the. Brunei is advancing its renewable energy goals with a new 30 MW solar power plant. 23 (Xinhua) -- Hengyi Industries Sdn. In collaboration with a Chinese enterprise, the Sustainable Integration of Natural and Renewable Energy (SINAR) project integrates. On February 12, Brunei commissioned its largest solar energy initiative at Hengyi Industries Sdn Bhd – the petrochemical joint venture between Brunei and China – on Pulau Muara Besar (Great Muara Island).
